

EIGHT LIVES FLOOD TOLL HEAVY LOSS

SOUTHWESTERN WISCONSIN COUNTIES RUINED WITH TORRENTIAL RAINS AND GREAT FLOODS.

EVERY ROAD A RIVER

Rural Districts Great Seas—Cities and Lines Marooned With Rail Communication Stopped.

Storm conditions in southern Wisconsin are serious to the extreme today. Against the heavy and continuous downpour of rain yesterday, the covering of temperature which started at midnight has had little alleviating effect on conditions today which have continued to become more and more alarming since Saturday.

Yesterday's rain raised all the rivers in the entire southern part of the state and already properly built up, the rains in the southwestern section rose rapidly during Sunday, making matters, already bad, still worse with each hour of rainfall. Not a road is passable in the entire southern tier of counties along the Illinois line.

Wisconsin Telephone company crews from this city, marooned since the middle of last week, when they were cut off by the heavy rain, today were unable to get through the flooded roads. The telephone lines were damaged by the snow and rain storm which started on Tuesday, election day, evening and continued with unabated fury until yesterday morning, when the telephone company agents began to work on the lines. The eighth death to have resulted from the flood, it was that of a man named William Owen, at South Wayne. He was taken to the hospital after being helped by a companion last night. He started to walk overland to Dill. His companion escaped but he was drowned.

Details Meager.

Communication is disrupted to such an extent that hardly any of the names can be ascertained. Incidents and details are also lacking, due to the flood.

In Green county, near Monticello, two were drowned while attempting to ford the Sugar river. This stream is rapidly rising and as early as yesterday afternoon the water was in communication from west of Brodhead with Janesville.

At Gratiot two persons met death when a trail bridge went out beneath the wheels of a heavy motor car. On the upper Pecatonica, near the border line of Lafayette and Iowa counties, a farmer named Hillman was trying to drive frightened cattle from a field to the barn. The cattle, however, gathered about him, he lost his balance and was trampled to the ground and smothered in the mud beneath their feet. To the west of the Pecatonica, near the border line of the Kickapoo valley when a bridge collapsed.

At Hazel Green, in Grant county, on the Illinois border, one person was drowned when a farm dam he was repairing burst.

West loss of life is confined almost entirely to southern Wisconsin, conditions most parallel from a flood standpoint are present in the central part of the state.

Wisconsin on Rampage.

The Wisconsin river at Portage, near discharges, is on a rampage of proportions greater than any experienced during the past four years. Levees are at the breaking point and inhabitants of the lowlands are removing from the lowlands with apprehension of serious breach. Geologists and others in the entire area drained by the Wisconsin are such that its waters would be what would be a dangerous flood stage. The Wisconsin river is less than two hours. River towns along its course experience this rapid rise several times a year with no idea when the next rise will come. The present height has been so great that a constant vigilance is kept to offset any serious danger to people in the lowlands.

At Portage the bottom lands of the Wisconsin and the Fox rivers are but three or four city blocks apart, and connecting the rivers are under water and only boat and horseback communications are possible.

Further west, lower northern central section, in the territory about Fond du Lac, high waters predominate. The so-called Fond du Lac "Lower" is under water, with people moving about the streets in boats. The section is an old marshy land, and the homes of the middle class. The river runs directly through the section and the business district is flooded. The water is so high that the business establishments will reach into the thousands.

La Crosse Apprehensive.

From Fond du Lac, on the Mississippi, in La Crosse county, the entire middle western part of the state, there are reports of high water up river and that there is danger of flooding of the Wisconsin and the Mississippi. The Black river, which empties into the Mississippi, some twenty or thirty miles above La Crosse, is swollen and pouring large quantities of flood water into the Mississippi.

At Galena, Ill., yesterday, passengers were taken off Illinois Central railway trains in canoes and rowboats because of the flood which swept the city. The two principal thoroughfares of the city have been submerged, in some places almost to the second floor, and residents of the lower section of the city have been moved to the hospital of those there from danger of the high water. The property loss is estimated at half a hundred thousand dollars. No loss of life was reported this morning. It was thought last night that the highest point of the flood had not been reached.

Wide Flood Area.

The widespread nature of the flood, with southern Wisconsin as the center, is shown by the scattered reports. Portage is almost an even hundred miles from the southern Wisconsin border and the Fox river is fifty miles north of Portage. Galena is in Jo Davies county in Illinois, about twenty miles from Hazel Green, in Grant county, Wisconsin, where the farmer repairing the farm dam lost his life.

Train Service Bad.

Passenger train service was established this morning as far west as Monticello. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road and train service was resumed. West of the Green River, however, chaos still reigns on the main line and branches.

YOUTHFUL GENIUS INVENTS A TORPEDO THAT CAN BE CONTROLLED BY WIRELESS

John Hays Hammond, Jr., son of the famous mining engineer and Republican politician, has invented many wireless contrivances, several of which are now before the war department, waiting to be passed upon. He has invented a torpedo that can be controlled by wireless from the coast fortifications. He has applied for more than one hundred patents covering the system in the United States and foreign countries. The younger Hammond is only twenty-eight years old.

FLOOD FACTS.

- Eight drowned in southeastern counties.
- Miles of Railway Tracks and county roads submerged and in some places entirely washed out.
- Loss will reach hundreds of thousands from damage to homes and mercantile business and drowning of hundreds of head of valuable dairy cattle.
- Only meager details available from affected area.
- Milwaukee road officials pass through water today to oversee flood damage repairs on railway.
- Rock river 35 1/2 inches above government mark, but waters recede 1 1/2 inches during morning.
- Main and Milwaukee street business house basements flooded.

er foreman, passed through here this morning to supervise the repair work. The Milwaukee company on Saturday night ordered several trainloads of gravel from Janesville pits. These were sent west throughout yesterday, but the trains were halted by high waters, first west of Brodhead and today west of Monroe. The officials expect little trouble in the resumption of passenger and freight traffic schedules after the water recedes and permits the section crews working. A large gang working on a structure over the railway at Fourth avenue and the upper electric plant were taken west this morning. It is expected that if necessary required, in some places on the Mineral Point division water three and four feet deep covers the railway right-of-way.

The Fulton plant was carrying a part of the load from the plant at Ingersoll. The broken and damaged water tank was taken in many instances was endangered to a certain extent, but apparently was carrying the heavy waters without any noticeable trouble.

The electric plant records here at 11 o'clock showed a inch and one-half drop from the river height at 7 o'clock.

Barge Endangers Bridge.

The Fourth avenue dam, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway bridge below it, and Milwaukee street stores were endangered during the morning when the large and water-filled barge of the up-river spring water company was later from its moorings at Crystal Springs park and came down the stream.

Fortunately the current turned it towards the Janesville Batting Mills side of the street at Fourth avenue, instead of permitting it to go over the dam. This was possible and had it done so possibilities are that the bridge would have been smashed with the water level taken in many instances from experiences of high water of the past twelve months saved many merchants losses.

Conditions at Beloit.

Beloit, March 27.—Beloit is suffering again from the high waters of the Rock for the second time this year. It is now five feet above the normal level. Store basements for three blocks back from the river are flooded and should the water come up further, much damage will be done.

SCHOOLS CLOSE NEXT WEEK FOR VACATION

Janesville students of the public schools will enjoy their annual spring vacation next week. School will close on Friday night of this week, March thirty-first and will reopen a week from the following Monday, April tenth. Quite a few of the Janesville students attending schools out of the city are home this week for their annual spring week of rest, while some will have their vacation later in April.

VILLA PLANS RESISTANCE TO PERSUASERS

BANDIT PREPARES TO MAKE STAND AGAINST U. S. CAVALRY SAYS AEROPLANE MESSAGE.

CHASED INTO FOOTHILLS

Pressed by Colonel Dodd's Cavalry Every Effort is Being Made to Prevent Outlaw's Escape to Mountains.

Field headquarters, American expeditionary forces, Colonia Dublan, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 26, by aeroplane to Colonel N. M. Dodd 27.—Evidence that Francisco Villa is preparing to resist the American pursuing columns and that the Mexican people are not yet rallying to him, has been received by the officers and scouts of the American troops.

Need Railroad Line.

San Antonio, March 27.—Unless permission is granted soon for shipment of supplies over one of the railroads to American troops in Mexico, the pursuit of Villa may be seriously retarded. It was explained at department headquarters today that the lengthening lines of communication along heavy trails, have made it practically impossible to deliver supplies by auto trucks, and that already a serious shortage of grain for horses and mules has been experienced.

Flying columns of American cavalry are seeking today to entrap Villa and his band by sealing up all the trails and passes in the mountainous district south of El Valle. Once the outlets are barred, squadrons of cavalry and detachments of infantry operating from the base near Casas Grandes, will comb the country and endeavor to rush their quarry into the open.

Cavalry Pursues Villa.

Villa and his band are moving rapidly among the foothills of Sierra Tarahumara hotly pursued by three columns of American cavalry. Colonel Dodd is directing the movement.

This information confirms reports of American travelers from Casas Grandes district Saturday that Villa band had broken through the Carranza troops. Mexican Consul General does not believe the Carranza forces permitted the band to escape. Villa scattered his command in his fight southward, and at one time it was learned today led only a small force of 15 or 20 men.

Villa Increases Command.

The army censor at Columbus has permitted the information to pass that Villa increased his command at El Valle by forcing thirty-five young men and boys to accompany him. Military men here say this indicates that Villa does not believe he has successfully eluded his pursuers and is in position to move a larger body of men without fear of capture.

Brigadier General Pershing expects it will take months to capture Villa. He is confident that the army will be victorious in the belief that Villa never will be taken.

Americans Resume Work.

Douglas, Ariz., March 27.—Scores of foreign-born Mexicans, according to the Montezuma Copper company returned from here today to Macaozoro, Sonora, south of the border, to resume work at mines of the company near there.

Use Mexican Telegraph.

El Paso, March 27.—The American forces have been allowed the privilege of using the Mexican telegraph system for messages, according to an announcement today. All communications, however, are censored by General Bernal, the Carranza commander at Madera.

Attack on Tampico.

Washington, March 27.—The gunboat Marletta has been ordered from Vera Cruz to Tampico to aid in protecting American interests. The battle ship Kentucky, and the transport, will proceed to Vera Cruz. Americans in the Tampico oil regions are still apprehensive. There are 2,000 Americans in the vicinity.

COMMITTEES MAKE WHIRLWIND START

SUBSCRIPTION LIST FOR GOSSARD FACTORY PROPOSITION INCREASES RAPIDLY.

NEAR FIVE THOUSAND

Mark in Total List Up to One O'clock Today—Good Half Day's Work is Accomplished.

Nearly five thousand dollars—or to be accurate, exactly four thousand, six hundred and forty-five dollars, was on the various subscription lists of the various committees that are working to secure $12,000 to assure the bringing of the Gossard factory to Janesville. For the first half day's work this is considered a good showing and the various committee-chairmen feel much encouraged.

It is hoped that before night the total figure will be considerable over the six thousand dollar mark and will climb rapidly from now on. This money thus far subscribed does not include the three thousand dollar contribution of the Bostwick estate, but are the individual contributions.

The committee members are most enthusiastic over the project and believe that it can be carried to a successful issue. They are meeting with ready response from business men generally and in final outcome. The conditions of the contribution are that before the deed to the property is turned over to the Gossard company, the greatest part of the total of a half million dollars in wages to its employees of the Janesville plant.

ONE LEGGED YOUTH IS STAR ATHLETE

Alliance Boy Sets Out to Become Star Performer and Succeeds Despite Defect.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Artie, O., March 27.—Fifteen years ago "Peg" Oswalt, 23, watched Mt. Union college baseball men and "Peg" often expressed the wish that some day he would be the greatest athlete in Ohio. But "Peg", having only one leg, realized his inability to become Ohio's greatest two legged athlete. So he set out to become America's greatest one-legged athlete. He is that today.

Oswalt plays football, baseball and basketball and can roller-skate. His one leg has stood him in good stead in many a hard-fought athletic contest when he competed against able-bodied two-legged men, and did not suffer by comparison.

"Peg" learned to pole himself on his crutches and he can kick off at the best two-legged players in football. His crutches are used only in starting the game. As soon as the ball goes sailing through the air he throws them away and hops with as much speed as many gridders attain on two good legs.

Last fall "Peg" played right guard on the strong Alton high school team, which went the whole season without a single defeat. It is a matter of local football history that Oswalt played in a game with Canton last November leaped through the line and stopped a terrific tandem plunge when Canton had the ball on the one-yard line ready to back it over on the last down. Oswalt played in every game and was frequently injured, but refused to quit.

"Peg" catches on baseball teams and is given a runner after he reaches first base. He has been known to hobble all the way around the circuit at times when runs were needed.

He is a deadly accurate goal shooter in basketball. He plays forward on the McCoombs Bros. team here, which a week ago defeated the strong Hiram college five.

In addition to these sports, Oswalt is an excellent roller-skater and an expert swimmer.

"One leg is enough if you know how to use it," he has frequently said to friends.

PRIMARY ELECTION COST ABOUT $826

Eight Candidates Spent $654.63 During the Primary Political Campaign.

The primary election cost the eight contestants and the city of Janesville, approximately $826, according to figures obtained at the office of City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund this morning. Saturday was the last day for the eight candidates to file their accounts for money spent during the campaign as is required under the corrupt practice statute. All of the eight men filed their affidavits, and these under the law, contain a record of the money spent for political purposes.

William W. Hyzer leads the candidates in the matter of money expended, his statement showing a total of $275.27. The others were as follows: William Langdon, $122.30; Roy Cummings, $125.30; Frank Starr, $48.45; John J. Sheridan, $34.40; Thomas Nolan, $24.35; Charles Young, $15.15; Fred Briggs, $13.00. The total amounted to $654.63. The city will pay the salaries for election clerks, inspectors and officials, which will probably amount to $140.00. The election ballots cost $8.50 and the rent of one polling place. Other minor expenses amounted to two dollars.

SHERMAN WAS RIGHT: IN WINNIPEG THEY PUT WAR TAX ON 'MOVIES'

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Winnipeg, Man., March 27.—The kibosh was thought to have been put on the movies here. A tax of 20c for every seat occupied during any amusement performance in Winnipeg has been officially ordered. Theaters in other towns in the province pay 10c a seat. War revenue and the public economy on the part of the city are the causes.

TARIFF COMMISSION BILL IS PRESENTED

CONGRESSMAN RAINEY OF ILLINOIS INTRODUCES MEASURE IN THE HOUSE TODAY.

WANT G. O. P. SUPPORT

Effort Made to Make Bill as Nonpartisan in Order to Secure Republican Indorsement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 27.—A revised bill to create a permanent tariff commission on lines suggested by President Wilson, and which it is said had received his full approval, was introduced in the house today by Representative Rainey of Illinois, ranking democratic member of the ways and means committee.

"The bill in its present form has the approval of the administration and will be the administration measure of this subject," Congressman Rainey said.

"It will be supported by all democratic members of the ways and means committee and it is hoped it will receive support of republican members of that committee. The bill is as nearly non-partisan as it is possible to make it."

Provides Six Commissioners.

The bill will provide for the appointment of six commissioners at $10,000 a year each, no more than three of whom can belong to the same political party. The first appointments are to be made for two years, eight, ten and twelve years, after which the terms of office of all are to be for twelve years. The chairman and vice-chairman must be appointed biennially according to the terms of the bill.

The duties of the commission are to investigate administrative and fiscal effects of the customs laws of this country, relations between rates of duty on raw material and finished products affects of ad valorem or specific duties, all questions relative to arrangements of schedules and classification of articles in the law, and to put all information in the law, and at the disposal of the president, the house ways and means committee and the senate committee on finance.

Can Investigate Tariff.

The bill would give commission full power to investigate tariff relations between United States and foreign countries, commercial treaties, preferential provision, the effect of export bounties, preferential transportation, the volume of importations compared with domestic production, and of conditions, causes and effects relating to competition of foreign industry, including cost of production and dumping of surplus goods, and the effect of trade secrets and process is recognized as provision of $1,000 fine and imprisonment for one year for any member or employee of the commission who divulges confidential information of the commission.

Representative Rainey said that the bill would not be submitted to a party caucus, although at the same time it probably would be added to the omnibus revenue bill. "Because it is hoped to make the commission permanent," he declared, the bill provides for an annual appropriation of $600,000 to meet its expenses.

"The measure is my judgment, inures in the future tariff stability, and whenever revisions appear to be necessary, it will make it possible to make them intelligently," said Mr. Rainey, who is a native of Illinois.

He became as near removing from the tariff unfair and unreasonable partisan actions as any measure yet conceived.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Oshkosh, March 27.—Alfred A. Bachler of Chicago, former steward at Northern Hospital for Insane at Winnebago, entered a plea of not guilty today to charges of embezzlement and arson against him. The charges were filed in the municipal court ordered the charge made.

The defendant was bound over to appear at the regular April term. Bail was fixed at $2,000, the original amount. The information charges Bachler with embezzlement of funds and property totaling 2,022.

RUSSIA HAS FEARS THAT FINLAND WILL JOIN THE ATTACK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Copenhagen, March 27.—Possibly forecasting a serious internal situation at home, the Finnish government have been forbidden to leave the country, it became known here today.

Finns between the ages of 19 and 41 must remain in Finland pending the country's decision to join the Russian army. There are approximately 500,000 men in Finland available for military service. Less than 4,000 Finns have joined the Russian army to date. All parties of exit are now closely watched with the most vigilance by the Russian authorities.

"Finland has no desire to fight for or against Russia," said a wealthy Finnish ship owner who arrived here today after escaping from his own country by signing up as master of one of his own ships.

"Financially speaking, it is between the devil and the blue sea. The people are a solid unit with the national Diet against military participation in the war. By the people I mean even the first and all the time. If the Germans invade Finland, the Russians will devastate Finland just as Poland was razed."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 27.—It is announced that eleven persons were killed when British steamship Minneapolis, for Genoa, was sunk last week in the Mediterranean.

German Torpedo Boat Lost.

London, March 27.—A German torpedo boat is missing since the sea fighting which followed the British air raid on Saturday morning on German aviation sheds in northern Schleswig-Holstein, according to an official German statement received by wireless.

Other Vessels Sunk.

London, March 27.—The French steamship Hebe, 1,500 tons, the British steamship Cerno and the British fish carrier Khartoum of Hull, have been sunk. The crew of the Hebe and Cerno have been landed. Twelve members of the crew of the Khartoum have been saved, but it is feared the rest of the crew are drowned. Lloyd's reports the British steamship St. Cecilia, the sinking of which was announced yesterday, was blown up by a mine. She had a general cargo from Portland.

SEE MUCH BLOODSHED IN SPRING FIGHTING

War Experts Declare That Next Five Months Will Witness Terrific Fighting in Europe.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, March 27.—Men who have been in closest touch with every move of the world war to date are beginning to forecast that the next five months will bring an unparalleled burst of battle, attended by the worst bloodshed in the world's history.

The immense waste of human life and material since the war began, greater than that which shocked the world at Liege and Namur, has demonstrated, the experts say, that if this was gone on to the bitter end, no phase of history, ancient, medieval or modern, will compare with the slaughter. One military critic said today:

"The almost impregnable character of the defenses on the Western front, have been building for eighteen months, make it the fiercest and the line of any assaulting body of troops. When a commander orders a battalion to the assault and posts the rearguard, they are ready to follow, he knows that the position attacked will be captured by the reserves, if captured at all."

He cannot help but know in advance that the first line will melt away before the reserves, and the objective over the bodies of their comrades, they too, may have been mowed by the machine gun, rifle and cannon fire. The trenches on every mile of the front that runs from the North Sea to Switzerland.

"No one can blame the commanders for the course they are bound to take. It is the nature of the war, not willing to make the sacrifice, they are in the front ranks know that their chance is slim. The best they can will be to wait until the reserves are mowed by the machine gun, rifle and cannon fire. The trenches on every mile of the front that runs from the North Sea to Switzerland."

Throughout all the theatres, the coming Spring will see the greatest activity of the war, attended by the inevitable, the military experts are saying.

Nor will the slaughter be limited to soldiers, some forecasts declare. It is believed in a circle that the Zeppelins will take heavy toll of civilian populations in many quarters. Reports from Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance, say that the Zeppelin factory is turning out twelve or sixteen Zeppelins a month. The German sevens and Schultze-Lange factories located elsewhere also are reported active to an extent of ten times their normal output.

This great monthly addition to the German aerial fleet, the experts are inclined to think, must forecast hitherto unexampled air raiding everywhere. The question of the air defense of London is being debated in Parliament and with the appointment of Lord Derby as Air Minister, the public is beginning to have confidence in the ability of the aerial defenders to deal with the Zeppelins. Steps in the right direction have been taken in many places.

The renewed activity of the German submarines, it is admitted here, means a toll of non-combatants, probably exceeding previous losses, but there is genuine confidence that the navy will meet that problem too, where past war has been, however, will be confined to the various armies in the field.

No Infantry Attacks.

Paris, March 27.—There were no infantry attacks in Verdun region last night, this afternoon's official statement says. East of the Meuse the artillery action was violent along the Douaumont-Vaux line. To the west of the river, the night was relatively calm.

ACCOUNT FOR AMERICANS ON SUSSEX

NO U. S. CITIZENS KILLED IN TORPEDING OF CHANNEL BOAT, REPORTS PARIS EM. BASSY.

SEVERAL BADLY HURT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, March 27.—Detailed information gathered by the American embassy here indicates that two or three Americans on the Sussex were injured. It is possible, however, that there may have been among the passengers some Americans whose names were not inscribed.

Information obtained by the American embassy indicates that two or three Americans on the Sussex were injured. It is possible, however, that there may have been among the passengers some Americans whose names were not inscribed.

All recitals of the disaster give great praise to the young French naval officer, who walked up and down the deck of the Sussex encouraging the passengers with assurances that the vessel would not sink. He induced many persons to remain aboard instead of jumping into the sea. The surviving passengers agree that Americans showed great self-possession in many cases, sacrificing their own chances of safety in favor of women and children. Apparently the disaster on the sea been complete had not the sea been calm and the explosion not occurred at the bow.

Life Boats Crowded.

Most of the lifeboats were so crowded that they sank almost to the water's edge and consequently leaked water. Samuel Bemis reached a lifeboat, but left it when it became overloaded with women and children. He took to a raft and floated about for some time before he was rescued. The raft together with their neckties, and saved a number of persons still in the water. Mr. Bemis arrived in Paris in a motor car, who had been rescued by a boat. He said he supposed his shoes were floating somewhere in the channel.

One of the women survivors says two life belts were wrenched from her by a man. An American gave her a third belt.

The few Americans reported up to last night as missing from the Sussex, have now been located. Only one man, an American, Fenell of New York is still unaccounted for.

Wisconsin Man in Hospital.

London, March 27.—Two of the three American survivors of the Sussex, who are at a hospital at Dover, are James Mark Baldwin and Mr. Joshua A. Dickinson, New York and Wilder Penfield of Hudson, Wis., suffering from shock and bruises, but are not seriously injured.

Washington, March 27.—Consul Agent Whitman at Boulogne reported today that he was informed by French officials that a piece of bronze resembling a part of a torpedo had been found on the channel liner Sussex.

TWO BAD ACCIDENTS HAPPEN AT DELAVAN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Delavan, March 27.—Two bad accidents occurred here today. The Bradley Knitting Works when two of their male employees were caught in machines. The first happened at eight-thirty o'clock when Patrick Lewis, an Irishman, who has been in this country about a year, was operating a machine. His right hand caught in one of the parts, was badly crushed and his arm was broken. He was taken immediately to the Rice hospital.

The second accident happened about a half an hour later when George Coombs, a married man residing on Racine street, was being taught how to run a machine. He was taken with a fainting spell and fell on the machine he was running. A corner of the running machine caught him on the neck, causing a long wound. The Elbert stitches were taken by physicians at the hospital where he was taken.

Two accidents in one day at the Bradley Knitting Works is a very rare happening as there have not been such misfortunes there in a long period of time. Both men were reported to be resting well this afternoon.

LAKOTAS DEFEATED BY ALL STAR TEAM AFTER HARD TILT

Fogarty Comes to Janesville Carrying Too Many Guns for the Unprepared Lakotas.

General Fogarty invaded the camp of the Lakotas Cardinals, and the old fox caught a decided strategic surprise on the home ground by coming up to Fort Auditorium with a strongly loaded aggregation, which caught the Lakotas unawares. As a result the Rockford clan copped the honors in the basketball game Saturday night, in a battle marked by extremely thrilling playing, squabbling, with an unfortunate accident, a name change, and the only discreditable feature, that stood out to 22 and the two teams now stand even, the Lakotas having previously beaten Fogarty's five, 20 to 14.

Fogarty "skipped one over," and that is all there is to it. He had a team in the field Saturday night, that was almost unbeatable, and any doubters of this fact, should consult the records of the men. The Lakotas expected a hard game, but they never anticipated that they would need full military strength to win. Right now preparedness is a most popular issue with the Lakotas. Had they been prepared a matter of three points would never have won that game.

Had Great Team. For center, Fogarty had a lean, lanky, low-headed player who attends school at Northwestern. This same player carries a name of White, and he is an All-Western center, and that one player who came near beating Wisconsin out of the conference title. All who saw the game are convinced that this same White can surely get a degree in basketball. For forwards Rockford has Stegeman, one of the best football style basketball players in the west, and of course, Fogarty. Fogarty has had his press nothing better, but the veteran never played any better than he did in this fateful game. Young and Murphy played guards and they played mightily good ball, and anyone has long ago learned that a player who can beat Young, furthermore his playing is such to command respect and admiration at all times.

As for the Lakotas, they slipped on the line-up. They had Edler and Atwood and Dalton, but there you stop. They had Gray and Hass, a stout, heavy player, but the team was shifted around so that their percent of their playing strength was lost. Hemming, it was reported, was busy engaged in some other city, and was forced to go to center. Edler had no show in coming up with the Lakotas as they were Saturday night, did not have much show to win the game, so all that remains to be said by the fans is to say, "If Hemming and Korb were in the game, or 'Watt' with next game."

First Half Play. The first half opened with Young scoring a bewildered goal from the side, and then tossed over his shoulder. Young got away an indignant growl, and the eight hundred present wondered if it was New York, was here again. Edler took a sprint and sprang down the floor, ducking and dodging, and through scoring a goal in the best play of the game. That goal was the only one Edler scored as Young kept his hands to shoot and a fielder on the defense had to keep watching Young. Fogarty scored a "cripple" when Gray failed to see him sneaking through the first line trench. Atwood worked the pivot around White and scored three goals.

The playing at this period was the most sensational seen this season. Both teams battled with a fierceness that led one to believe that the players were hostile, to say the least, and that this was not far from the case. The Lakotas lacked their finished teamwork and the dribbling of Young and Fogarty was a real factor. All the breaks of the game went to Rockford. They scored shots that were dukes, pure and simple. On the other hand the Lakotas had to work hard and four men played in the "struck" with the ball under the "wreck" goal. Dalton surged into the "wreck" in a most intrepid manner, but the Lakotas had small success in

The second half was not as cleanly fought, or as well played as the first. The game was beginning to tell, and after Stegeman was injured, the players took wise precautions against another accident. The Lakotas battled gamely against the odds and scored goals enough to put them within one goal of Rockford. After ten minutes play, Fogarty ordered safety-first play, and four men played in the "struck" with the ball under the "wreck" goal. Dalton surged into the "wreck" in a most intrepid manner, but the Lakotas had small success in breaking up this play because Hass and Gray were not experienced in stopping the "walking dribble." These tactics did not meet with the approval of the fans who expressed their disdain for Fogarty in a most resentful manner. For once General Fogarty during the playing, for it is a well known fact that he delights in bumping and roughing just so long as he is not a victim of the hostilities. When the game had two more minutes to go to score, Stegeman on the jump, after the scrimmage, kept knocking the ball into the crowd, stalling for time. It was a desperate move. With half a minute to play, Dalton ran over to Fogarty and gave him a farewell remembrance that cost the Lakotas a foul and Young made it as the crowd was leaving the field.

Summary. Lakotas—19. Rockford—22. Edler ..... 1. Stegeman ..... 1. Hass ..... 1. Fogarty ..... 1. Gray ..... 1. Young ..... 1. Dalton ..... 1. Field goals—Stegeman, 3; Fogarty, 1; Young, 1; Dalton, 1; Atwood, 1; Hass, 1; Edler, 1; Young, 1. Foul goals—Edler, 5 out of 7; Young, 2 out of 3.

Referee—William Langdon. Attendance—784. From the Trenches. Stegeman received a ugly cut in the first half when he was dribbling the ball down the side. He was traveling full speed and Gray caught up to him to stop the play. Stegeman bumped into the post with full force and as ill luck would have it, a nail tipped the forehead above the eye to the bone. He fell to the floor and players rushed to his aid. Two physicians present at the game bandaged the wound and after a short rest Stegeman insisted that he continue playing. When he appeared on the floor, his bandages, the spectators gave him a long ovation. He scored two baskets after the accident and never slowed up a bit. He is a hard and rough player, but is never guilty of dirty tricks.

Fogarty came to Janesville to win that game—and he did. Next Saturday the Lakotas play the Watling Ovals, and they are a great combination being champions of Indiana, with a long record. Young may play with the Lakotas, for he is no good a player as can be found in the country. Edler surprised even himself on free throws, getting five out of seven. We would like to have seen any guard stop Young from getting his hands on the long, hairy shots are a habit with him. The last half the Lakotas tried desperate long shots and failed miserably. Dalton could have done as good. The crowd sure had the laugh on Fogarty when he came down the floor alone and missed two woefully easy shots under the goal. "Fog" was even ashamed himself and the first chance he got pushed Dalton to the floor for the floor for vengeance for his slip. For the next game with Rockford, the Lakotas aim to have Hemming, Edler, and Dalton, guards; Atwood and Hass or Chandler, forwards.

COACH MACKLIN, WHO IS TO LEAVE "MICHIGAN," ACHIEVED GREAT RECORD

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] East Lansing, Mich., March 27.—John F. Macklin, for five years director of athletics at the Michigan Agricultural college here, who was at some time, is general credited with having been one of the most successful football coaches in the United States.

During the five years that he coached the Michigan Aggies Macklin placed the athletic affairs of the college on a high plane and the success of his football teams during the past three years won them nation-wide recognition. The University of Michigan is M. A. C.'s leading opponent on the gridiron. Until Macklin took charge the best showing the Aggies had made against Michigan was a scoreless tie. With a green team, in 1911, M. A. C. held a powerful Maize and Blue eleven to a 10 to 3 count. Until the last year the Michigan football team was leading. Coach Yost then sent a new backfield into the game and won. In 1912 Michigan won, 50 to 7. Then the worm turned. M. A. C.'s great machine swept over Michigan, 12 to 7. In 1913 and the next Saturday defeated Wisconsin by a similar score. A goal from the field gave Michigan a 3 to 0 victory in 1914. Last season Michigan sent a veteran eleven to Ann Arbor and Michigan's team was defeated, 21 to 0.

In baseball, track and basketball M. A. C. teams have also made creditable records under Macklin, but it was in football that the former Pennsylvania star achieved greatest fame as a coach and player. He was a member of the Pennsylvania eleven when Mike Murphy was trainer. He put many of Murphy's ideas into practice at M. A. C. and the fine condition of the local athletes often asserted itself in grueling struggles.

Head coach was offered a position as head coach of the University of Wisconsin football squad last fall. He announced at the time that he was preparing to enter private business and said he would have accepted the Wisconsin offer if he had intended to continue coaching.

It is believed that the Michigan state board of agriculture will not name his successor. Mike Gibbons has started to keep his promise to convince the board that his brother Tommy is just as good a boxer as he (Mike) is. Mike landed New York with Tom recently and now is laying siege to the offices of Gotham promoters to convince them that they are missing a chance for financial prosperity by not signing Tom.

SATURDAY'S SCORES AT MILLER ALLEYS ARE NOT STARTLING

Madison and Whitewater Bowlers in Big Tournament Here Fall to Get in for High Scores.

Ten days of the big southern Wisconsin bowling tournament which is being held at the Miller alleys, have passed and still no five-man team has made a new record in that class. On Saturday the Mendotas from Madison defeated the Whites from Whitewater in a hand in the different events, but did not do anything startling. In the five-man class 2515 pins fell for them and in the doubles one pair from Madison won over the Whites. The Mendotas rolled three fairly good games. In the first event they got 853 and in the second only 814 while in the third and last event they did a little better and got 848 pins.

The Whitewater Cardinals did not come up to their standard in all prize money was thus eliminated for this prize money was only $250.00. In the other events they did better than the Capitol City pin men.

Most of the scores made in the other events Saturday night, not what one would call paying one. Anderson and Winkelman of Whitewater went off with the high score honors in this class for the night only when they topped over 1000 pins. Daret and Stephenson from Madison were the closest followers with 1004 of the clubs having been fallen by them. Other contestants from this city failed to work good together and the scores made were rather low.

The question of the entrants at the tournament is that either the bowlers are poor or the alleys are off. The alleys are classed as among the best in the state so the pin men must be in the single events. The scores made for this class was made about a week and a half ago by Harry O'Brien of Watertown and his score of 625 still remains as the goal for bowlers in this class. Saturday there was not even a five-man score made and the highest was 492, made by E. Winkelman of Whitewater.

At the end of this week the tournament will close. From now on there will be some crack teams on the alleys and the scores made will surely be high. Tonight the Branch wizards from Rockford will roll and three local fires will also be on the alleys. Tomorrow night Dorchester's Cats and Elliot's Tigers from the Line City will come and take part in the different classes. Following are the scores made last Saturday:

LEAGUE BASEBALL STRIFE MAY BE SETTLED AT MEET

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.—The state semi-pro baseball muddle, as far as southern and eastern Wisconsin are concerned, will probably be settled at the meeting of the club owners of the Lake Shore league, which is being held here today.

Before the meeting it was considered not unlikely that an eight club league composed of Manitowish, Sheboygan, Marinette-Menominee, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Appleton, Two Rivers, and the Koskies of Milwaukee, will be formed. William Liebel, Sheboygan, was strongly in favor of such a circuit, and was confident that it would make a strong showing.

Charles Kloosman of this city presided at the meeting.

The league formed at a recent meeting in Racine consisting of Southern Wisconsin cities will undoubtedly make a good organization, and if the plans for the circuit are carried out the southern and eastern parts of Wisconsin will have plenty of semi-professional ball this summer.

WILLARD IS WINNER IN BOUT WITH MORAN

Champion Gets Popular Decision Over Frank Moran in Record Receipt Bout in No-decision Contest.

New York, March 26.—Jess Willard, champion heavyweight of the world, successfully defended his title in the record, ten-round, no-decision bout with Frank Moran, Pittsburgh challenger, Saturday night. Willard won on the popular decision of newspapers, but there is no doubt that the champion, through his physical advantage, was superior to Moran.

Records were broken for a no-decision bout. Over thirteen thousand people witnessed the fight, and the receipts were announced as being $151,524, of which the state of New York receives $11,344.06. Willard's share was $55,100, and Moran's over $25,000. After paying all expenses, it is estimated that Promoter Tex Rickard will take forty thousand dollars as profit in the "business" venture. Thousands were unable to secure admission to the Madison Square Garden, where the fight was held, or the receipts would have mounted even higher.

Willard Makes Good. The bout was the first fought by Willard as a champion. His showman demonstrated that he is no fluke, no false alarm, but good enough to hold his title for some time to come. His height, strength and punching power, through his long reach, was what beat Moran. Claims were made by Willard that he broke his right hand in the second or third round, while jabbing Moran and his long reach was what beat Moran. Claims were made by Willard that he broke his right hand in the second or third round, while jabbing Moran and his long reach was what beat Moran.

Moran Was Game. Moran fought a game and courageous battle. He never quit trying and forced the millage. He tried to hammer Willard in the body and failed, and tried overhand, powerful swings to the jaw, but lacked height and power, and they were aimed at times he reached the champion and it was a question which man's blow had the more punishing power. In the early rounds Moran made a desperate spurt, taking chances. He had Willard blocking and covering to escape the punches that twice floored Jim Coffey. But the champion took the full force of those blows, landed with 200 pounds of strength back of them, and never faltered. The vast crowd was delighted with excitement, but Moran's rally was short-lived.

In the last two rounds Willard won all the way. Time and time again he landed half a dozen jabs without a return, for he managed to keep his jaw a safe distance from Moran and kept hitting him. The third was Moran's best fight. In the seventh he landed punches that had Willard worrying. But the champion was never in danger. The other rounds were all Willard's, and it was a disputed question if Moran won any round but the third and this only by a small shade.

Moran Badly Cut. That the challenger received the worst trimming was demonstrated by the marks he bore after the fight. Willard was hardly marked. Moran has his forehead split, open early in the bout and was troubled with blood flowing into his eye. Half blinded, Moran was punished severely about the face and body.

It is now proposed to match Willard with Fred Fulton in Milwaukee, but

PLUG CHEWING A WHOLESOME HABIT

In No Other Way Can You Get All the Richness and Flavor of the Leaf

"SPEAR HEAD" BEST CHEW

Many prominent physicians declare chewing to be the most wholesome way of enjoying tobacco.

"I began chewing some years ago," said one, "and I soon found that it is the only way to get the benefit of all the rich juices stored up by nature in the tobacco leaf. I refer, of course, to the plug form of tobacco, which is the most natural and the cleanest form. Chewing good tobacco like Spear Head makes the salivary glands more active, which in turn has a beneficial effect on the whole system. Add to this the sweet, mellow, delicious flavor of a chew of Spear Head, and you have the highest possible degree of tobacco satisfaction."

"I mention Spear Head because I have found that this brand is exceptionally pure, being made in a factory that's run strictly according to pure-food rules."

Spear Head is made of sun-ripened Burley, which is acknowledged to be the richest, mildest, finest flavored tobacco leaf in the world. And it is produced by the latest process, which develops the quality and luscious flavor of the choice Burley to the supreme degree.

A chew of Spear Head has a wholesome relish that is not found in any other chewing tobacco. Try a 5c or 10c cut.

the champion declares he will not box until next fall.

IF DETROIT RECRUIT DOES GET "DIZZY" SPELL HE IS EXPECTED TO BE REGULAR.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Detroit, Mich., March 27.—Detroit baseball fans are greatly interested in reports from the training camp of the Tigers at Waxahatchie, Tex., concerning the condition of Harry Heilmann, recruit utility man. Last season Heilmann hit .354 for San Francisco, leading the Pacific Coast league. He was compelled to leave the team in mid-season, however, because of frequent dizzy spells. Thus far during the present training season, the malady has not bothered him.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Cloudy tonight and Tuesday.
Warmer Tuesday.

PLAIN FACTS.

Citizens of Janesville know what the present city administration stands for. They know what it has accomplished. They know that taxes have been reduced, that the lighting system of the entire city has been reorganized, that the water works have been taken over and the price of the water rates reduced, that a new concrete bridge has been constructed across the Rock river at Milwaukee street, and that our police regulations are the best of any city in Wisconsin.

In all this work, Mr. Cummings has played an important part. He has handled the water works since the city took them over and by his management has been able to see the way clear to reduce the water rates materially as soon as permission is given by the state railway commission. Mr. Cummings has also played an important part in the re-arrangement of the street lighting system, the making of dark corners in the residence district light and not increasing the cost to the taxpayers.

The voters of the city know that the streets have never been kept in better condition than at present and that it has been the aim of the entire city government to conduct a business administration and a wise expenditure of the people's money. All have worked in unison in this direction and the machinery of city government is now running more smoothly than it has in years past.

Knowing these facts why try an uncertainty for a certainty by making a change in the personnel of the commissioners? Why experiment simply to satisfy ambition for power? The wise man does not tear down a perfect working machine to experiment and try a new flywheel or something else when everything is running smoothly and there are no promises or pledges of a betterment of working conditions offered by making the change.

The coming election promises to be fraught with much interest. There are many who believe that a change in government at this time would be a dangerous experiment. Cool, sober second thought will show that such opinions are correct. We do not wish to return to the old conditions under any circumstances, so why make any change at this time?

OTHER ELECTIONS.

On Tuesday, April 4th, aside from the city election, the voters will have an opportunity of voting for a justice for the supreme court to succeed Judge Timlin, whose term has expired, for four delegates at large and two district delegates to attend the various national political conventions. There is a spirited contest for the supreme court justiceship and while there is no contest for delegates to the democratic national convention there is a battle royal on for the republican delegation.

At Madison on January 27th some eighteen hundred republicans from all parts of the state met and named E. L. Philipp, Emil Baensch, C. K. Ellingson and S. A. Cook as the choice for delegates at large to the republican national convention. The two hundred odd delegates from the first congressional district in caucus endorsed Ingersoll of Beloit and Storm of Racine, as the two district delegates and they were later accepted by the entire convention.

These men's names will appear on the ticket next Tuesday as uninstructed delegates. They will go to Chicago if elected and help select the best man available for the presidential nomination. They are the choice of the majority of the republicans of the state without a doubt and their selection was not any pre-arranged affair, no behind locked doors conference result, and they are republicans not members of a clique or faction that seeks merely the furthering of the ends of one man.

Remember the names and the cause they represent, and if you wish to see the will of the people at last recognized in national affairs vote for them as delegates to a gathering of republicans that bids fair to make history for this nation at one of the most critical periods in its history.

NO FRICTION.

There should be no friction at the coming state convention of one hundred and ten delegates to select a candidate for United States senator. It should be a gathering of men assembled to deliberate over the selection of the strongest candidate possible to be placed in the field to represent the republican party in Washington. The man selected should be big enough, broad enough and strong enough to demand the recognition of the voters of the state and able to carry the battle into the enemy's camp.

The delegates thus far chosen are all men of unimpaired character and it is to be hoped their final decision will be based upon the actual fitness of the candidate to carry on the fight rather than a reward for past performance in the ranks. To follow this last thought would result in the defeat of the plan to rehabilitate the republican party in Wisconsin by the election of a United States senator who would work for and vote for the interests of his state and not for personal reasons.

When it is considered that at the present time Wisconsin is represented in the senate by a republican who has voted with the democrats for reduction of tariff, reducing grains and farm produce, and against the interests of his constituents there is no wonder that the real republicans of the state are anxious to see the state represented by a true republican and believe it is the opportunity to accomplish it. They are anxious to see a strong man selected to make the race and will be behind him from start to finish.

NEED OF A REST DAY.

Scientific experiments recently made at Harvard university shows that men who work seven days a week are less efficient. The results were attained by experiments to see what was the weakest electric shock that the subjects could detect. It was found that perceptible power was at the best following a day of rest on Sunday, and became dulled by fatigue at the end of the week.

The common sense of man has long held that a weekly day of rest is a necessity for health. This needs no reinforcement from scientific experiment. Yet such a test as referred to above has its value, as demonstrating beyond question that common observation is correct.

There are people who go to church Sundays, and then kick it on their return the confessional has not delivered at their door a newly packed freezer of ice cream for dinner. Many people become impatient if public conveniences and other services do not continue as usual. They forget that they are asking an army of people to forego their Sunday, which is doubly restorative if observed on the general rest day.

Of course in our modern, complex civilization a certain amount of Sunday work is inevitable. But railroads and other public services should be careful to see that every man gets his day off through the week. Probably more trains are run on Sundays than real necessity calls for. It is a serious matter to cut working people off from the stimulating experiences of their worship, and it ought not to be done for frivolous reasons.

Engineering firms that do construction jobs often work seven days a week. They give the excuse that they are behind on contract. It sometimes looks as if they thought it more profitable to keep plant, equipment, and workers busy without let-up. It seems incredible that men can work seven days a week for any length of time, and turn out a profitable product or retain good health.

The republicans of Rock county met in a good, old fashioned county convention and elected Thomas S. Nolan and A. E. Matheson as their representatives to the state senatorial convention. It was refreshing to have the republicans gather for a convention again and possibly some day the old system will return so that the people, not the bosses, have a chance to express their individual opinions.

How will La Follette make his North Dakota platform accord with his Wisconsin platform when he comes down to the liquor question? It will be interesting to note what can be accomplished by a few oily words of explanation.

Willard is given the decision in his battle by the newspapers but it will not end the contention in the least and will attract public attention on the sport page until base ball begins.

Welcome Robin has been having a hard time of it this past week and he evidently wonders whether life is all as pleasant as it was last summer when he visited Rock county before.

Spring fishing is a prohibited sport in Rock river and at Lake Koshkonong this year so the annual stock of fish stories will not begin to be related until the first of June.

Dame Nature is hard at work trying to prepare for the summer months but her unruly son Jack Frost is such a mischievous chap he will not even permit the poor, old lady to arrange for the arrival of Miss Spring.

Well, thus far Villa has eluded every one of the pursuers. The question is, did they know where he was going or did they simply guess at it?

The Daily Novelette

A Vanquished Rival.

"Oh, hello, old chap. Just the man I'm looking for. Come and have dinner with me," bubbled Doggett Loose. "What? On this occasion—why the joy?" Cozily asked Cozie Nooks. Good reason he had, too for it was known all over the town of Chizzle-witt that Doggett Loose was a mean man. Why he was so mean that he'd drop a coin in a blind man's eye with a string tied to it so that after he received a blessing he could jerk it back again. So, of course, Cozie Nooks knew that something wonderful had occurred for Doggett to treat to a dinner.

"Occasion?" asked Doggett. "Why, the greatest in the world! My rival is dead!" and he laughed demagogically.

"Rival? Why you're married!" shouted Cozie Nooks. "Certainly I am. But I had a rival up until today. He's dead now. Did you comprehend my joyful demeanor?"

"Good heavens! And you stood for that? What a simpleton you are!" "Well, she loved him before we were married and she brought him to live with us. Of course, I objected, but all to no avail. After that, he and I became the best of friends. And he died this morning!"

"For the love of Petef! Well, you were a fool! What was his name?" "Idio."

And the two friends skipped off, snickering.

A Good Business. A southern business house solicited mail orders and secured names by writing to prominent men in small towns asking them for lists of their fellow citizens who use whisky. If any persons on such lists purchase from the company, the citizen who sent in the names gets a commission. Some time ago a merchant in a dry county received a request, and, as a joke, filled out the blank with names of total abstainers never known to take a drink or tolerate it in their homes. The business man had forgotten the incident, when one day recently he received a check for $14, accompanied by a letter from the Kentucky firm, stating that the money represented commissions on liquor sold the people on the list he had submitted.

EDGERTON IS AGAIN MENACED BY FLOODS

Recent Rains Swell Saunders Creek and Floods Part of Resident District and Downtown

Edgerton, March 26. The melting of the recent snow together with heavy rain storm swelled the waters in Saunders creek flooding the entire lower districts of the city. Cellars are filled with water and North Main street has about a foot of water rushing across the street in a regular torrent. The street is damaged so that a new facing will have to be laid. Several families in this district are compelled to leave their homes. Furnaces in basements were put out by the water and at the Lyric theatre, next to the post office the orchestra pit was flooded with about six inches of water making it necessary to move things in the building. At the Ellington hardware store the water backed into the basement through the sewer depositing mud, age and stench and damaging the hardware stock stored there. Had this freshet been accompanied with ice as was the case with the January raw undoubtedly the water would have made new high water records. There is a movement on foot to form a drainage district through the city and papers undoubtedly will be filed with the circuit court this week asking for relief from the water menace.

Roy Palmer is confined to his home with an attack of pneumonia. Clarence Jones, formerly engineer for the city of Edgerton was an over Sunday visitor in the city calling on friends.

The owners of cottages at the Pleasant View resort together with Carl Josephson have started proceedings to force a public road through the cottages on the river. If this road goes through there will be a lot of land near the railroad bridge that will be made available for summer cottages and will also give the cottages now located there a suitable lot. Commissioners were selected by lot as prescribed by law in Judge Long's court on Saturday last and will have charge of condemning the property that is to be affected.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad by George Storm, a new boy, grown to young manhood. Helen saves Storm, now a fireman, her father, and his friends, Amos Rhineland, Francis, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision. Safetybreakers employed by Seagrue steal General Holmes' survey plans of the cut off line for the Tidewater, and Helen goes to work on the Tidewater. Helen rescues the survey plans from Seagrue, and though they are taken from her, finds an accidentally made proof of the survey blueprint. Storm is employed by Rhineland, Spike, berried by Helen, in turn saves her and the right-of-way contracts when Seagrue kidnaps her. Helen and Storm win for Rhineland a race against Seagrue for right-of-way. Helen, Storm, and Rhineland rescue Spike from Seagrue's men.

TENTH INSTALLMENT

"A DASH THROUGH FLAMES"

While the fight was going on in the two camps, Seagrue, ignorant of what was taking place, urged his claims before the city council in Las Vegas for a right of way through their city property.

The council listened coldly to his demands. And the chairman of the ordinance committee, after a conference with its members, informed Seagrue that what he asked was unreasonable. "The Copper Range & Tidewater railroad has one right of way through the city property. We cannot grant another."

Seagrue took the rebuff calmly. "Without abandoning further effort to induce favorable action in behalf of his road, he stopped a passing messenger boy, wrote a telegram and handed it to him for dispatch. What the councilmen thought of the situation did not seem to disturb Seagrue materially, for having done this, he turned again to the committee and renewed his argument.

Helen, with Rhineland, Storm and Spike, was heading, in Seagrue's machine, for the bridge on which they had just detailed the outfit car toward camp. Storm, looking back, discovered that the ditched car had caught fire and was burning up.

"It's small loss," said Storm. "And, anyway, it would cost more time and money to get it on track again than the car is worth."

"But," exclaimed Rhineland, urging haste as he suddenly thought of himself of the contents of the burning car, "my most important deeds are in that car."

"What do you mean?" demanded Storm.

"I mean what I say," explained Rhineland. "The right of way deeds for a lot of our property around here

Whitewater News

LOCATE STOLEN PONY AT PORTAGE ON SATURDAY.

Whitewater, March 27.—The spotted pony that was stolen from the Leffingwell livery stable was located Saturday evening at Portage. Herman Stelter, who had hired it to go to Portage, left that city with it Wednesday evening and through almost impassable roads drove straight to Portage, where he sold the outfit for $20. He then left for Milwaukee, where he was seen and recognized by Mr. Downing of Fort Atkinson, who thinking there was a reward offered for Stelter, took him unassisted to the police station. Port Atkinson and Whitewater were communicated with directly and Chief of Police McLane here told Milwaukee authorities to hold Stelter as he had a warrant for him. Deputy Joe Miller and Harry Leffingwell, who had traced the pony to Watertown, were notified and Miller left immediately for Milwaukee and brought Stelter here Saturday evening and lodged the prisoner in jail. The chief of police at Portage was at once communicated with and was told where the pony had been sold to a livery man. His answer was that the animal was found and thought it better to return it by freight. Stelter is awaiting a hearing and trial.

Archie Cooley was arrested here on Friday on charge of stealing money and jewelry from Mrs. H. Hall. A hearing was held on Saturday and bail was fixed at $200 which was furnished by L. R. Miller and Earl Knicht. Earl Knicht and Russell Brandt of Elkhorn visited here on Sunday.

Matt Hickey of Milwaukee is spending a few days with friends here. Frank Callahan was home from Racine Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cartier of Milwaukee spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Messerschmidt.

Phil Dorr is home from his school at Hebron, Ill., for a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Dorr.

Miss Bertha Loomer is home from Beloit for a week's vacation.

Malcolm Tidmarsh of Two Rivers is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Tidmarsh, for the spring vacation.

Editor and Mrs. F. R. Bloodgood and son, Foster, visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bloodgood at Pecks Station.

Miss Edna Mielster of Palmyra spent Sunday with Miss Laura Kochel.

Walter Cram of Waukesha spent Saturday here.

Miss Beulah Hicks and Irene Talbert were in Janesville the last of the week.

The marriage of Miss Iva Wilbur and Roy Hand occurred on Wednesday at Rockford, Ill. Both the young couple have friends here. They have lived many years in this vicinity. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilbur on Park St., and has been working in the Knitting mills at Delevan. The groom is the son of C. O. Hand and is an energetic young man of sterling qualities. The young couple will make their home with C. O. Hand at present.

Ed, Fred Winkelman, George McLane, Harold Andersen and John Callahan were at Janesville Saturday evening and Sunday, participating in the Southern Wisconsin Bowling tournament, being held at the Miller alleys.

Mrs. Moses Sleep and daughter, Cora, and Mrs. A. E. Smith and daughter, Hazel, of Palmyra, were guests Saturday at the home of Henry Combs.

Miss Maude Thayer of Palmyra was in town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fern Roger of Ringwood, Ill., were visiting here, with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Colby and with other relatives.

Professor and Mrs. Reynold and family spent from Friday until Sunday night with friends in Madison. Another interesting hour was held yesterday in the primary department of the M. E. Sunday school. Miss Grace Kildow's class of little folks were in charge and the subject was "Indiana." The program was more pretty, among other things was a wigwam and the Indian head drawn by the cartoonist at the lecture course last Wednesday night. A program consisting of appropriate songs, etc., was given and then there was some work, pertaining to the subject in paper cutting. These programs are proving very successful and two more are to follow.

in Seagrue's camp, the fight over, idle men hung around in discontented groups. The storming had not added any to their good temper and the loss of work continued to irritate. A man from the outfit car brought a telegram to Seagrue's foreman, the man known only as "Bill." Bill opened the message. His experience deciphering telegraphese was not wide and he stumbled over the penning for some time before he finally made out the contents:

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing—but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. MCCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 33.

The relationship between the known causes of constipation and the suspected causes of cancer is based upon the unnatural loss of cellulose, mineral salts, colloids, and vitamins to which the nation's breakfast foods and breadstuffs are subjected before they are put on sale.

Because it is true that constipation in the United States causes more human misery than drunkenness and shall not dismiss the subject until it is considered in connection with the prevalence of acidosis and cancer now the rapid increase from coast to coast.

The demand for laxative pills, cathartics and heart depressors for the relief of constipation and the headaches due to the absorption of retained toxins from the bowels, is greater than the demand of the "morning after" for bracers.

It is needless to reassert this truth for all of us know that if we ask any druggist what one so-called remedy is most covered by the human face we shall be told that "constipation pills" are the most popular of popular clamor for relief from distress.

The average creature, who lives largely on food deficient in cellulose, fibre, and mineral salts, needs no constipation bracers, but there are a few warning for such creatures which should not be ignored.

Diagnosticians are agreed that many of the ills which plague human nature are preceded by a history of constipation. They also agree on the proposition that freedom from constipation averts many ills.

They are not agreed upon the cause of cancer. Some believe a direct relationship between the known causes of constipation and the suggested causes of cancer. This relationship is based upon the loss of cellulose, mineral salts, colloids, and vitamins in our breakfast foods and breadstuffs.

Takes, for instance, the bran of wheat, which is one of the food elements lost to modern cancer-plagued civilization. What bran consists of three layers, all of which contain larger proportions of cellulose or fibre than the interior of the grain.

The two outer layers contain more of the phosphorus, calcium, and iron compounds than the other parts of the grain; while the innermost layer contains a special kind of protein, which, there is reason to believe, is the seat of the indispensable vitamins lost in the milling of wheat.

As we have seen, bran is not so "digestible" as first-patent flour for the reason that all of first-patent flour is absorbed, whereas all of the bran is not absorbed. The mistake of estimating the food value of any food by its ability to undergo complete absorption has already been recognized by many authorities and it is now certain that the medical profession will soon give to the non-absorbable food elements the importance which belongs to them.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

60 DAISY DEAN

It has frequently been said that beauty is more necessary to success on the screen than ability, personality or anything else. If this be true, how comes it that Blanche Sweet is more popular than the vast majority of the beautiful girls who are in the picture business? The answer is simple. Sweet may be able to get a good photograph at times (note the accompanying picture), but those who have seen her a great deal on the screen know that beauty is not one of her strong points. She isn't even neat, her best friends admit.

But everybody loves her, and the crowds go where Blanche plays. The reason is obvious. Miss Sweet is a finished actress and more important still, has a personality. Very few actresses indeed have a more winning personality than has Miss Sweet. She has been on the screen as long as Mary Pickford and is just as popular. The same pictures with Miss Pickford.

EUROPE'S WAR IN NEXUS

George Behan, portrayer of Italian types, is engaged in the production of his initial photoplay subject for the photoplay company. It is "Uasquale," a play written by himself in collaboration with Lawrence McClosky.

In "Pasquale" Mr. Behan will appear in the quaint character of a poor Italian such as dwell in great numbers in Mulberry street. The subject has been chosen for its dramatic and various actual scenes of battle involving the Italian army, with others showing the maneuvers of a fleet of Zeppelins, are included in the picture. Supporting the star is a cast that includes Myrtle Stedman, Helen Page Peters, Jack Nelson, and Nigel de Brullier.

In the big sets selected for the production, "The Mother and the Law," hundreds of people and a great many horses, camels and elephants were used three or four days consecutively for the making of oriental scenes said to represent conditions 2500 B. C.

The Horsley studio has a brand new animal. It is a little yellow ivory elephant with diamond eyes and gold tusks. It was sent to Margaret Gibson by a Japanese merchant who was admiring her in "The Soul's Cycle."

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)

AT THE APOLLO.

Hazel Dawn in Rare Combination of Laughs and Thrills.

If you have smiled unconsciously in response to the irresistible smile of Hazel Dawn, you are already a convert to the motion picture screen in former Famous Players productions, her next appearance in "My Lady Ince," which is to be the Paramount picture at the Apollo tonight, will be a revelation. As Nell Carroll in this thrilling comedy-drama, Miss Dawn does the best work of her motion picture career, far eclipsing any thing that she has ever done before. Briefly the tale is that of a southern girl who suddenly discovers that her home is mortgaged to the limit and will be forfeited if she does not succeed in meeting the obligations upon it. She obtains employment as a detective agency and is set upon the trail of a gang of thieves who have been operating in an extensive summer colony. Unknown by anyone in the colony, Nell is introduced as the Baroness Du Vassay and is taken up by a Mrs. De Vaux in whose house she becomes a guest. Suspicion soon centers upon the son of the hostess

Blanche Sweet. She will be seen shortly in "The Sowers," on the Paramount program.

The elephant stands about five inches high.

A film company has acquired the works of Rex Beach for movie pictures. Mr. Beach is a story teller of the great outdoors and his books show excellent material for the screen. Preparations are in progress for the filming of "The Silver Horde," a tale of Alaska, and "The Iron Trail."

Myrtle Stedman of Pallas fame is compiling a list of the names of actors and actresses who have left the operatic stage for the screen. The list includes Miss Stedman herself.

and, despite her growing interest in the show, she decides to do her duty and have him freed. Then the arrival of the "baron" starts a new series of complications which end in a remarkable climax.

The exterior scene in "My Lady Ince" were staged in Florida, where Miss Dawn and her supporting company were sent under the direction of Sidney Olcott.

AT THE APOLLO.

"Chimmie Fadden" on Tuesday. The Little Town of Newhall, California, where the Lasky company hired for two whole days, is a typical western village and by renting the entire place to motion picture companies from time to time, the money going into the city and the citizens are not obliged to pay any tax. It is the only town in the United States which can be rented by the day. It was there that many of the screaming funny scenes for the Jesse L. Lasky production of "Chimmie Fadden Out West," with Victor Moore in the title role, were made.

This picture will be shown again Tuesday at the Apollo, with a special children's matinee at 4:15.

AT THE APOLLO.

How "Pudd'nhead Wilson" Got His Name. Lawyer Wilson, a young man, comes to a small Missouri town to practice. On his first day in town, angered at a dog snapping at his heels, he remarks, "If I did, I would kill my half." The subtlety of this remark passed over the heads of the townspeople as they couldn't figure out what would become of the other half of the dog if Wilson killed his half. This remark, his eccentric speech and his habit of securing thumbprints from everyone with whom he came in contact, induced one of the town wits to call him "Pudd'nhead," a nickname that remained with him throughout his life. This nickname blighted his career as a lawyer, but he managed to eke out a fairly good existence.

That is the beginning of the story of the second of Mark Twain's important sales to be presented in photodramatic form for the Paramount program by Jesse L. Lasky. "Pudd'nhead Wilson" will be seen at the Apollo on Wednesday.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Manager Myers has an excellent attraction tonight in the person of Cal Stewart, the original "Uncle John" of the photograph record fame. There is no question about Mr. Stewart being a great character actor and entertainer.

Gypsy Rossini, with "Cal" Stewart at Myers Theatre, Tonight.

In his unique style of work, his impersonation of a good hearted, well-souled inhabitant of the rural district is indeed solid and he keeps his audience roaring with laughter. Cal Stewart is known as "the village story teller." He looks and acts the part in perfect fashion and he has probably told his funny stories to more people than any other living man. He has made more talking machine records than any other man and they have been sold by thousands wherever English is spoken. Cal Stewart in his makeup is a typical good natured old farmer. Gypsy Rossini and her violin are greatly appreciated. Her selections are very beautiful and her technique superb. Her part of the evening's program well worth seeing. She plays a number of fine violin selections, being an artist of exceptional ability. Margie Stewart, comedienne and pianist, is one of the best known "Sis Hopkins" entertainers and her number on the program is greatly appreciated.

REAL UNCLE JOSH

SEEN ON STAGE

Cal Stewart, Accompanied by Gypsy Rossini and Margie Stewart Entertained Afternoon and Evening Myers Audiences.

Not on a photograph record, or on a movie screen, but in real flesh and blood, Cal Stewart, the famous rural comedian, was seen at the Myers theatre in a matinee and evening performance. Surely anyone who has laughed at his retortations of Uncle Josh at the County Fair or the "Boys and Pumpkin Holler," famous the world over, on the photograph, could help but appreciate his appearance here on the stage. Gypsy Rossini, a Roumanian violinist, helped along with the entertainment with many delightful selections from both classic and popular music and Margie Stewart, the pianist, also created a kindly interest for her playing and light comedy work. Happy Cal picked out a bad day for his first appearance here in Janesville, but wishes to thank all who braved the storm to attend his show. He and his

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man who is of good family, but my parents object to him because he speaks disrespectfully of the church.

He never goes to any of his gatherings. He goes with me to the church. I would respect him more and I think I could love him if he were to go to the church. He thinks best. I wouldn't mother's church, even though he never joins it. I think he should not speak of the church in a disrespectful way. My parents say he will only go to my church until he gets me. I don't want any boy to forsake his parents' church for me. I am a Protestant too, but of a different denomination. What can I do to get him to go to the church he belongs to? I do not want him to think I am drawing him away. He is rather attractive and wants his own way. If I say we will go skating he has an argument not to go. I suggest walking one way he is sure to want to go the other. He is nineteen years old. Do you think I should turn him down?

—JANE.
A boy of nineteen should not be expected to have very definite views on religion, but he should be expected to show respect toward every religion and especially toward the religion of his parents. Let him see your disapproval when he makes remarks you do not like, but don't interfere with his attending whatever church he thinks best. I wouldn't advise you to marry one so disrespectful and contrary. But since he is only nineteen there is no eminent danger.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like to make some money. Do you know of any place where I could sell fancy work? I thought perhaps some store would take my work. Or do you know of any other way I could make pin money? —WILD ROSE.

A dry goods store might take your fancy work, but it would keep twenty per cent of the profit and sales would be so slow that you would make scarcely any money. It would be better to go from house to house and show your work. You ought to be able to get enough orders to keep you busy if you go at it in this way. Some women make pin money by putting up canned fruit for their friends. If you could rapidly I should think your plan would be better than canning fruit, because there would be more money in it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls of nineteen and twenty. (1) Is it all right for us to go with boys who have been attracting our attention? We know them in a business way, but they have never been properly introduced to them. We know they will soon ask to call upon us. (2) Is it all right for a girl who is not engaged to have as many as three to six boy friends who take her out occasionally to show, etc? —PEGGY AND BETTY.

(1) If the boys appear to be the kind you would like for friends, let them call.

(2) Yes.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a traveling man for about three months. We correspond as often as once or twice a week and he seems to think a great deal of me. He comes to see me as often as he can and takes me to places of amusement. I asked him for his picture, which he gave me.

(1) By giving it to me, do you think it really shows he cares for me? (2) He did not ask for my picture in return. What do you think was his reason for not asking?

—ANXIOUS.
(1) It is not a sign that the traveling man loves you because he gave you his picture.
(2) Probably the man has picked up so many pictures of girls in his travels that he was not interested in adding one more to his collection. A traveling man, my dear, is often the most fickle person in the world.

THE TABLE.

Barbecued Ham—Soak thin slices of ham one hour in lukewarm water. Drain, wipe and cook in a hot frying pan until slightly browned. Remove to serving dish and add fat in pan three tablespoons vinegar mixed with 1 1/2 teaspoons mustard, one half teaspoon sugar and one-eighth teaspoon paprika. When well heated pour over ham and serve at once.

Johnny Cake—One-half cup cornmeal, 1 1/2 cups flour, one cup sweet milk, two eggs, butter the size of small egg, three tablespoons sugar (even full), three teaspoons baking powder. Beat eggs until very light, add milk and sugar, beat very light. Butter (melted but not hot) the last thing. This is very light and delicate.

Apricot Shortcake—Half pound apricots, cup sugar, one sheet of spongecake, one-half pint whipped cream. Soak apricots and cook until well done, with just enough water to cover. Add sugar, beat very light, spread on sponge cake and spread cream on apricots.

Meat Patties—One cup left-over meat chopped fine, 1 1/2 cups bread crumbs, one onion, salt and pepper to taste. Shape and roll thin, slice bacon. Bake in hot oven twenty minutes.

Pork Loaf—Get 1 1/2 pounds pork from shoulder and grind, to this add about one handful of dried mushrooms which have been stewed, or about one cupful fresh mushrooms, one tablespoon butter, one egg, one fourth cup milk, one cup bread crumbs, season with salt and pepper and put in roaster with one tablespoon butter and a little water. Bake three-fourths hour. Very good.

Mushrooms on Toast—Wash and cut up mushrooms, put on a little cold water and very little salt (too much destroys the flavor). Cook half hour, then stir into the liquid a piece of butter dipped in flour; add a little pepper. Serve on toast.

Economy Dumplings—For small family, take a quart flour sifter half full of flour; add pinch salt, one heaping teaspoon baking powder; sift all together, then add just enough water to moisten well so it will drop from a spoon into the sifter (cold). Steam, closely covered, fifteen or twenty minutes.

Lemon Curd—One and one-half cups granulated sugar, grated rind and juice of two lemons, one heaping tablespoon butter. Put all in a pan, boil one minute (no longer), take off stove while beating one egg; add egg, put over fire again and bring just to the boil; let cool a little and pour it into a jar. Set in a cool place for several hours. Fine for sandwiches and children's afternoon lunch on bread or crackers.

BORROWING TASTE

(She Chooses Her Gowns the Same Way.)
"I choose my gowns the same way," she said calmly.
"You mean that you let Mrs. R. choose them, too?"
"No, not Mrs. R. I don't care so much for her taste in clothes, but I like you know, in the clothes sense, perfection, and try never to buy or plan a gown without asking her advice."

"Don't you want to have any individuality?" she said.
"I don't think that prevents. She doesn't select the thing. She merely guides my taste, just as Mrs. R. does."

The mutual friend looked even more horrified.
"Like me individually," she said stiffly. "No one helps me buy either my clothes or my furniture."

I thought of her clothes and her home and I could well believe her. She has learned to Supplement Her Own Judgment.
For myself, I admired my hostess more than I ever had before. And I could understand why her home and her clothes have become more attractive in the last few years. She has discovered the great secret that her own judgment isn't trustworthy in certain lines, and she is supplementing it with the best her friends can give her.

"Sometimes,"
"Why? You are going to live in the house, aren't you? I should think you'd know what you want yourself better than she does."

"Yes, I do know what I want at the moment," said our hostess, slowly. "But I don't know how to get it. I want to go to live with my friend from day to day. Her judgment is better than my taste, so I get her to teach me how to choose."

The mutual friend, who, as you may see from the tenor of her conversation, is an intimate friend with the privileges thereof, gave our hostess a look of pity and condescension. It said plainly that she knew what she wanted better than anybody else. But the hostess was not at all intimidated.

INGROWING NAIL

Two factors enter into the etiology of ingrowing nail—light, narrow shoes, and improper cutting of the nail. Of course there is no use in preaching about tight shoes; those who wear them will wear them, come what may. We may dwell upon the right way of trimming the nails. The function of the toenails, if they are considered to have a function in the civilized individual, is to protect the sensitive tips of the toes. This being true, the nail should not be too closely trimmed, and when it is trimmed it should be cut straight across, without any attempt to round the corners. The starting-point of an ingrowing nail (which is a misnomer, in spite of the opinions of chiropodists) is often this very effort to round off the corners.

Supposing prevention has been ignored and an ingrowing nail has arrived. The condition is as follows: The outside edge of the nail appears imbedded in an inflamed, hyperthrophied or thickened mass of granulation tissue, from which more or less fluid, watery or purulent, exudes. The granulations have grown up over the edge of the nail, and not vice versa, as the name implies. The treatment consists in removal of the granulations, not removal of the nail. Exuberant granulations ("proud flesh") in any situation may be cut without giving pain, since granulation tissue had no nerves. But the cutting must be done by a physician, not by the patient or any untrained operator. Ingrowing nail unintelligently treated sometimes brings on septicemia (blood-poisoning) and is therefore distinctly not a condition for the chiropodist.

The skin may be drawn away from the edge of the nail by carefully applying a C. adhesive plaster straps extending spirally backward outside, under and around the great toe. Of course this manoeuvre is useless unless the shoes are correct—straight sole lines, fairly broad, rounded toes. It is a waste of time treating the condition of faulty footwear is persistent. It is so hard to cure, short of surgery.

The groove in which the granulation grows can be kept filled with any simple astringent, such as powdered alum, nitrate of lead (this should be used for only four days), or tannic acid. Scraping the nail is often beneficial and often institutes severe inflammatory reaction. The surgical cure consists of making an incision in the skin outside the outer edge of the nail and removing an aliphical wedge of tissue. It is a simple and effectual means of curing a very painful and troublesome condition.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Thyroidectomy and is it good for exophthalmic goitre?
Answer—It is a product obtained from the blood of animals which have been thyroidectomized—of both sexes the thyroid gland has been removed. The product is of doubtful character. Personally, we think it is useless. Still, it is prescribed by good physicians.
A Treatment for Ringworm.
Is there any new treatment likely to cure a chronic, obstinate ringworm?
Answer—Have the doctor paint the lesion with half-strength iodine, then freeze it with whichever agent he prefers (carbon dioxide snow, ethyl chloride). Freezing destroys the parasite.

FRENCH SCHOOL CHILDREN FURNISHED THE SOLDIERS WITH WARM GARMENTS
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Paris, March 27.—The school children of France have furnished more than 600,000 warm garments to the soldiers during the two winter campaigns. The teachers of both sexes of public schools have also contributed to that work, and have also shared largely in the maintenance of different war charities by abandoning part of their salaries. They have in addition found homes for about 30,000 children, victims of the invasion of France, and have played a considerable part in accelerating the red of gold into the Bank of France.

These distributions, however, have not interrupted the school work of France. There has not been in France anywhere excepting the invaded regions a university, college, lycium or school where the instruction has been interrupted, as shown by official information from the minister of public instruction.

GINGLES' JINGLES

GO AT IT HARD.

When you've half made up your mind you're going to do a certain thing, and you find the task is harder than you thought, you're in line to get discouraged and will no doubt quit the job, for the proper spirit thus you haven't got. You will find most any task is hard when you start in with ease, you must get momentum or you can't go through; starting easy lacks the push that puts it over with success, thus to start a thing with ease will never do. Going at it easy always makes the proposition hard, going at it hard will make it easy work; do not think you cannot conquer, never doubt your power to win—get right at it, there is never time to shirk. Take a start and don't start easy, but go to it good and hard, jump right in and keep a plugging, never stop; you'll arrive, you'll reach the summit, do not think you can't succeed—just go at it hard, and you will reach the top.

MILLIONAIRE GOES BEFORE COURT FOR WHITE SLAVERY

Chicago, March 27.—After many delays and postponements, William Rufus Edwards, millionaire St. Paul lumberman, went to trial here today, charged with having violated the Mann act.

Ada M. Cox, a stenographer, who once sued Edwards for breach of promise, is the principal witness against him. Edwards has secured several continuances from the federal court, once because his wife was approaching motherhood, next because of his baby's illness, and finally early this month, because he himself was suffering from nervous prostration.

Edwards' counsel planned to attack Miss Cox's character. It was said, and has been arranged for transportation for twenty-five witnesses from many places to Chicago.

Miss Cox was a stenographer in a Chicago coal office. She declared she was transported to St. Paul by Edwards, and that Edwards promised to marry her. She won a $17,000 verdict in her breach of promise case.

Miss Gwendolyn Cook.

One of England's most beautiful actresses, Miss Gwendolyn Hague Cook, has become engaged to wed Capt. Eric Long, son of the Right Hon. Walter Long. Captain Long is in London on a furlough from France. Miss Cook is noted throughout England for her beauty.

Kidnaped & MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Where did you put the baby to take her nap?" asked Dr. Ellison, coming out on the porch and looking around the yard for some sign of the baby carriage.

"Out under the maple tree. Put on your glasses, dear." Olive's voice floated gaily out from the dining room, where she was clearing off the dinner table.

"Well, it is not there," the doctor put his head in at the hall door. "Think again! Was there ever anything like a man to look right at a thing and not be able to see it?"

"You're sure," the doctor said, "that you saw her when you drove up to the door?" There was alarm in Olive's tone.

"I came by the way of the alley, and in the back door so I would not have seen her. You wheeled the buggy somewhere else and have forgotten it," consoled the doctor.

"Gaylord, I did not. Where else is there to wheel it?" It is not in the house and there is nothing on either porch, nor under the trees on the side of the house," Olive was looking ing as she spoke and getting more frightened every moment.

"Maybe Nell Morton came by and carried her off. She is always wanting to borrow her." The doctor felt it his duty to furnish some plausible excuse for the baby's disappearance. Olive was getting so frightened.

"She would not carry her off without saying anything, objected Olive. "Perhaps she did and thought you heard," persisted the doctor.

"I'll go and call up, and ask her," Olive ran hurriedly into the house, and the doctor took another tour of the yard, half expecting to see the familiar baby carriage at every corner, but he found nothing. He had fully convinced himself that the baby was not there when Olive returned very much excited.

"Nell has not seen her. What can have happened to her?"

"Now Olive dear, do not excite yourself. Nothing can have happened to her. It is very strange, I'll admit that, but nothing could happen in this little town. The doctor tried to be very quiet and reassuring.

"Some one has kidnaped her," said Olive, beginning to cry.

"The children of the rich stand in such danger, but who in his senses would kidnap a poor doctor's baby? There is absolutely no reason why any one should do such a thing."

"Reasons for that is what has happened," Olive took her handkerchief away from her eyes. "Do something! We can not stand here and let some one get away with our baby. Go down to the depot and see if there is any trace of her there. The noon train is just leaving now. Oh! My baby is on it."

The doctor hurried away to his automobile and was soon seen whizzing toward the depot. Olive rushed to the phone and called up the city marshal. She reported the baby missing and frightened the sleepy functionary by insisting that he set on foot a search for the kidnapers.

Household Hints

HELPFUL IN SEWING.

Much time is spent in putting on pocket fasteners. First sew the spans on one side of the goods, chalk each snap, press it on the goods on the other side and it leaves the exact place for the fastener to be sewed. It saves time in pinning and measuring and the work can be accomplished in half the time.

TO ROLL IN FLOUR.

When rolling fish, liver, etc., in flour, use a piece of wrapping paper instead of a dish. This is quicker and better and saves the wasting of a dish, as the paper is crumpled up and thrown into the waste basket.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Use lime water as a tooth and mouth wash, morning and night. It will whiten and harden the teeth, prevent decay and keep gums in excellent condition.

When opening a can of fruit push up the rubber around the lid and lid will easily turn. By this process the lid is saved the dents which a knife will cause in running under.

Save matches by holding match in a curling iron to light gas burners. More burners can be lighted from the one already aflame, and many a burned finger saved.

To clean white velvet or broadcloth hats, white plumes, etc., mix one-half cup borax, one-half cup flour, one-half cup cornmeal. Lay article to be cleaned on a newspaper, rub mixture well in, brush it off and repeat several times, then lay it away for several hours, or over night, covered with the mixture. Brush it all out good and you will be surprised with the result; makes them white, fresh looking, just like new.

Picture Frames.—When gilt frames, gilt mouldings, etc., show specks of dirt from flies or other causes, clean with the white of an egg gently rubbed on with a soft brush. Black walnut frames, dull from age, can be made to look like new by the application of pure linseed oil with a brush or a new piece of bleached muslin.

EVANSVILLE MAN COMMITTS SUICIDE BY HANGING SELF

Painter and Decorator Kills Self By Hanging in His Home on Saturday Night.—Leaves Wife and Children.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Evansville, March 27.—Fritz Wolff, age fifty years, an upholsterer and interior decorator of this city, committed suicide by hanging in his home Saturday night.

To accomplish his dire purpose he used common upholstery twine, making a loop which he threw over a ceiling hook and which extended within three feet of the floor and across which he laid his neck, his hands, feet and knees being on the floor.

He was discovered in this position between seven and seven-thirty Sunday morning, in a room used for his workshop. While the reason for his suicide is not known, the theory is advanced that he did it while temporarily insane.

JAPANESE ECONOMISTS DISCUSS THE EFFECT OF WAR ON LABOR

Tokio, March 27.—Japanese economists are interested in the economic effect of the war upon labor conditions in Japan. The investigations made in the representative parts of the empire show that during the months immediately following the beginning of the war the business depression was so marked that many manufacturers were obliged to discharge laborers, whereas later on the conditions made a sudden change for the better and a boom in business resulting from the heavy orders for war munitions made a big increase in the demand for laborers.

Generally speaking, the national industries felt a shock at the outbreak of the war in 1914 and during four months, from August to November, of that year, business was in a condition of depression of a kind that has not been experienced for many years.

Statistics taken in the important manufacturing center of Osaka show that a decrease of work men in the four months following the beginning of hostilities was a little over 12 per cent. The increase was especially marked in those industries making goods for purposes of exportation. The most marked percentage of decrease was observable in plush making, buttons, towels, soaps, pipes and casting.

In Nagoya, which is the great watch and clock manufacturing center of Japan, the production of timepieces in October, 1914, showed a decrease of 40 per cent over the month of July, just before the beginning of the war.

A similar influence was felt in other industries, especially cloisonne wares, braids, straw hats, embroideries and raw silk. The decrease in cloisonne was 68 per cent and the decrease in straw hats, which are heavily exported by Japan, reached 55 per cent. The Japanese make a straw hat of very fine texture which resembles the Panama hat and which is sent to all parts of the world.

After the first four months the situation suddenly and sharply improved as foreign nations began to feel the need of the necessities which were manufactured in Japan and began to make a call for war supplies, especially woollens, leather, boots, bandages, soap and other incidentals. The boom which set in was so marked that manufacturers began to feel the scarcity of skilled labor.

MELTING OF GOLD COIN TO SUPPLY JEWELRY DEMAND A PROBLEM IN ENGLAND

London, March 27.—The practice of melting British gold sovereigns to mix with other metals and make jewelry to sell to suddenly enriched men said to have become so alarming that an effort may be made during the present session of parliament to pass a law to prohibit it. There are not many sovereigns in circulation in England, they having been recalled shortly after the outbreak of the war, but they can be obtained easily in exchange for paper notes at the Bank of England.

The gold reserve in the Bank of England at the present time is estimated at about $250,000,000. There are other gold reserves of course, in the hands of other joint stock banks. One of the aims of the government is to prevent sovereigns going out of the country to keep up the gold reserve supply and to prevent the gold from reaching the enemy.

For the past six months, or even since the munition workers began to work night and day and draw greatly increased wages they have been having gold melted for jewelry. The practice is said to have become especially noticeable in Birmingham, where many of the large jewelry manufacturers are located. There is a law against the practice of melting government moneys.

CANADIAN OFFICERS ARE GRANTED LEAVES TO PLANT HARVEST ON THEIR FARMS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Winnipeg, March 27.—An official order extending to every non-commissioned officer and man on active service in Canada leave of absence not exceeding one month to go on farms, has solved western Canada's problem of finding help to plant this year's grain crop, in the opinion of government officials here.

Under the provisions of the order the soldiers will receive full pay for their service in the army in addition to the payment received from farmers for their work. Free transportation from camp to farm will be provided by the government to the extent of 300 miles and operation of the military order will begin as soon as conditions permit of working the land.

Twenty-seven thousand men are under arms in military district No. 10 and the proportionate number who can go out to plant the crop should be adequate for the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Units farther west will take care of Alberta province.

To prevent soldiers taking unfair advantage of the order the authorities added certain regulations, one of them stipulating that leave of absence would be given to no other purpose than to aid in the agricultural work and that the man applying for leave must present proof that the offer of farm work has been obtained.

Returning from the field, the men must produce a certificate from the persons for whom they worked; a certificate must be countersigned by the signature of a clergyman or two responsible residents in the vicinity of the land on which the work was done.

Premier C. T. Norris of Manitoba has already begun active work for carrying out the order. He said that western provincial governments would co-operate in the distribution of men.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED ACTORS SERVING WITH BRITISH

London, March 27.—There are now 1,500 actors serving with the British forces, it was announced at a recent dinner in their honor given by members of the theatrical profession.

Derby, who raised England's big volunteer army, said the members of the profession a compliment for the assistance they had given in his recruiting campaign when he said:

"I hardly know better than to do much recruiting owes to the dramatic and variety professions. One had never to appeal to them in vain. They have always been ready to give their services, and much is due to them for the success that has attended the volunteer recruiting."
